

Per capita income is one of the economic indicators to measure the prosperity of the nation. Since it includes the size of the population it is sometime used to measure the inequality. Uttarakhand (9.69), Tamil Nadu (8.45) and Gujarat (8.44) completes the top three line-up for this indicator. Although it is surprising to see Uttarakhand at the top but it may have been due to the very low base in the year 2005-06.
